1 When is the last day of school?

M2: Do you finish school on the third of July, Jamie? I want to book our holiday. There's a flight the day after that.

M: I'll have to check. I think it's the fifth. . . Yes, that's right, Dad.

M2: Great. I'll book the flight that leaves on the sixth then.

M: OK.

2 What is Max bringing to the class party?

F: Max, I'm making some cookies for our class party tomorrow. What are you taking?

M1: That really nice lemonade from the supermarket in town. Do you think two bottles are enough or should I ask Mum to get another one?

F: That's fine because I know Gerry is bringing some apple and mango juice.

M: Great, I love mango!

3 What will Sarah send her aunt?

M2: Good news Sarah! I've just heard from your uncle Kevin. Aunt Gemma has had a baby girl.

F: Great Dad! Shall I send her an email or text her to say 'congratulations'?

M2: Why don't you send them a nice card instead? That would be more special than a text message.

F: OK. Good idea.

M: Hi Rosa. What are you doing?

F: Well, I went to the swimming pool earlier this afternoon and at the moment I'm having a pizza with my sister.

M: Oh, OK. Do you want a game of table tennis? We've just put the table in our garden.

F: Great idea. I'll be there in about half an hour.

M2: Is your school trip on Tuesday, Anna?

F1: Actually, it's on Thursday Dad – it was Tuesday, but they had to change the day because of our school sports day.

M2: Oh, I see. Well, don't forget we're going to your aunt's after school on Wednesday.

You will hear a girl, Jan, leaving a phone message about a penfriend.

F1 Hi, it's Jan.

I've had another email from my penfriend. She knows a girl called Suzi who wants to write to someone here too. Would you like to write to her?

Suzi's living in Japan at the moment because of her Dad's work, but she's from China, actually. My penfriend and Suzi went to school together and they've been friends for eleven years - they're both fourteen, a year older than us.

When Suzi finishes school she's going to go to university and hopes to be a teacher one day, like her mother. Her father's a doctor.

Suzi's learning English at school and she's got a computer so you can email her easily. My penfriend says Suzi loves sport, especially tennis, but she also sometimes plays basketball and football. When she's at home, she enjoys cooking. She eats a lot of rice, but she likes chicken best, just like you!

Come to my house later and we can email them both. Bye.

You will hear two friends talking about their plans for a party at the girl's house.

(M = about 16 F = about 16 – Antipodean?)

F: You know we want people to wear special clothes to the party? Well, what about people dressing like clowns?

M: Or wearing different sports clothes? Oh, (slight pause) I know – like animals – that would be really funny!

F: Awesome!

M: You look tired. I'm really excited about the party. Are you?

F: I couldn't sleep, thinking and worrying about the party plans. You know, the food, music, games. I don't want people to feel bored.

M: It'll be great! Now, what about the food? A barbecue perhaps?

F: But it might rain.

M: Yes, that's true. And nobody likes sandwiches. But pizzas are always really popular!

F: You're right. I'll ask mom to order some.

M: Great!

F: Also, the band can't play at the party now.

M: Why? Is your dad thinking about the neighbours and noise?

F: Actually it's Ben, the guitar player. He's got a bad cold.

M: Oh no! And they were happy to play for free! But I've got music. (pause)
Anyway, what time's the party going to end?

F: Mom said ten thirty, but I said eleven and she said yes.

M: Good. The last bus is at eleven fifteen. People can catch that.

16 You will hear a boy talking about his father. What job does the boy's father do?

M: My dad cycles to work. When he had a problem with his car, it took so long for the guys at the garage to fix it that Dad started using his bike. There are showers at his office so he can change before he has meetings with his factory staff. He definitely looks fitter now than in old holiday photos!

F: Yeah, it's my elbow.
M: Don't you need to go to hospital?
F: Coach says I should ask the school nurse for a bandage. But I forgot to pick up my things! They're near the athletics track, under the tree!
M: Don't worry, I'll get them for you.

19 You will hear a mother and her daughter, Anna, talking about some shoes. What does Anna say about the shoes?

- F2: Do you like your new school shoes, Anna? They were very reasonably priced.
F1: They're OK mum but I really wanted blue ones.
F2: I know blue's in fashion but, they didn't have ones in your size, remember? It's important that they fit and don't hurt your feet!
F1: Well, I can definitely wear them all day at school – they'll be fine.
F2: Good.

- F: Is the new science teacher married?
M: I don't know. He didn't say anything about himself, only that he studied physics at university. He didn't really talk very much in class, and he never smiled!
F: Maybe he's shy. I know he plays basketball. He's the right height. His head nearly hit the top of the door frame when he walked into class!

- M: Hello, Chloe. Which school clubs are you going to this term?
F1: Well, I've got dance club on Mondays.
M: Oh. How about coming to computer club on Tuesday evenings?
F: I'm not free then because I go to a club where I can play tennis and basketball.
Anyway, computer club sounds boring.
M: What about Wednesday?
F: I've already got a club that day playing my guitar with other people. We practise in the school theatre.
M: The film club on Thursdays is good.
F: I love films but there's a club where I can learn to paint and draw – so I'm doing that then. I can watch films at home.
M: You're busy.
F: Yes, and on Fridays there's a club where I'm learning to use a camera. We're working on a project about sports.
M: And on Saturdays?
F: I'd like to be an actor, so I go to a club where we do plays twice a year.
M: Oh I'd like to do that.
